ALKIBLA

DISQUISITION

Upon WORSHIPING towards the

E A S T.

Wherein are Contain'd.

The General ANTIQUITY, the RISE, and REASONABLENESS of this Religious Ceremony in the Gentile World: It's early ADOPTION into the Church of Christ; with a Free and Impartial EXAMINATION of the Reasons affigned for it by the Antient FATHERS.

By a Master of Arts of the University of Oxford.

Enchiridion non ad Ostentationem Ingenii, aut Eloquentiæ conferipsi, verum ad hoc solum, ut mederer Errori vulgo Religionem constituentium in Ceremoniis & Observationibus plusquam Judaicis resum corporalium, ea que ad Pietatem spectant mire negligentium. Erasmus.

outh bave been the corrupt Inclinations of Man, ever supersities ously given to make new honouring of God of his own Head; and then to have more Affection and Devotion to keep That, than to search out God's Holy Commandments and to keep Them.

CRANMER.

LONDON:

Printed for J. ROBERTS near the Oxford-Arms in Warwick-Lane. M.DCC.XXVIII.

[Price One Shilling.]

ATTOTITOTO

DISQUISITION

They Working a course the

The Ceneral Assistants, the Roberts of this Religious Ceremon of this Religious Ceremon of this Religious Ceremon of this Religious Ceremon of this confly Associated into the Cheron of Cheight which I religious partial Humanus autour of the Readers of the Reade

Si

hap

fuit

(the cep.

the

partial Hrants arrow of the Resions at figured for it by the Antient Partings.

By a Ivialier of Arts of the Constitution of Section of Arts of the Constitution of th with the said to the to the

THE

AUTHOR

TO

Sir Richard Steele.

N the brightest Days of Britain, when BICKERSTAFF presided in the Chair of Wit, and o'er this happy Landshower'd Manna down, which suited every Taste, I had the Honour (tho' unworthy and unknown) to be accepted as an humble Correspondent: And it gives me now a melancholy Reslexion, when I am once more inclin'd to visit the World in Print, that the only Person, son, who introduc'd me to it, is Him. self retir'd.—To be an Intruder upon Solitude, I am conscious, is Rudeness; but, as the greatest Souls have never been so much ador'd, as when departed; Suffer me, Sir, to approach your Recess, (which ought to be sacred) with the Reverence due to the Genius of our Isles, and to make this small Oblation of Gratitude to th' immortal Manes of the SPECTATOR.

olla

com

No

for the every solds, I had the Agnories (the appears) to de acthe appeal as an entrable Correspondent (And it gives one note a exclunction stellaries.

Are World in Prince, that the only Perfont,

Him.

rever ted; cefs,

our tion

For my part, three

UPON IN THE MENT OF THE

WORSHIPIN

TOWARDSTHE

A M not ignorant, many ingenious d in fiver of one morm Af God se but am bumb

NAME IVINE WORSHIP being an Act of perfonal Address, that in the Performance thereof we should turn ourselves towards the Object we adore, is the Rubrick of Nature, and common Sense alone sufficiently informs us. Now God being an omnipresent Object, whose God 13.

Trismegist. whose Center, it has been said of old, is every Prov. xv. where; and whose Eyes, we read, are in every Place; it feems to me a thing very indifferent which way we turn in making our Adresses to Him; for that we cannot any way turn from him, nor towards him one way more than another: for whether in paying my Devotion I look up to Heaven, he is there; or if I fall low upon the Earth, and humble myself to Hell, he is there also. For my part, therefore, I shall readily own (fuppoling always he that officiates may be as well heard) it would be far from giving me any Offence, should I see a whole Congregation every one, if possible, facing a different way from each other: thus would they bear Testimony to the Immensity, the Ubiquity, or Omnipresence of the Deity with whom they have to do; and under what more pertinent and awful Notion could they call upon him?

> I A M not ignorant, many ingenious, and, perhaps, not ill-meant Arguments have been devised in favour of one uniform Aspect in the Service of God; but am humbly of opinion, were they all put together in the Ballance, the fingle Idea of an omnipresent Being, as above naturally suggested to us, in point of Edification, would outweigh them all: nor can I ever hope to fee more true Devotion and Decency than in a People acting under a just Influence of this Conception. I shall only farther add at present; in the Worship of Images indeed, or false Gods,

Gods, one n be a t tis the ation ! which cumst

> YE out m Fancy ons, a on, a who v

IN the w learn practi that t did at Left h confe

Bυ this I

the tv

a In quod in lib. 28

b Pb Ph. 11 for pray

Gods, to address ourselves more ways than one must (for Reasons sufficiently obvious) be a thing both indecent and abfurd; but tis the peculiar and incommunicable Distination of the Worship of the true God, that which way foever we turn, it will be a Circumstance by Nature perfectly indifferent.

YET Men, fays the Preacher, bave fought Eccles. vii. out many Inventions: So busy and fruitful is Fancy, that it has produced various Opinions, and various Parties on this very occasion, as will abundantly appear to any one who will be at the pains to fearch after them.

IN worshiping, fays Pliny, " We turn about the whole Body; and this Turn, we may learn from Plautus b, by the Romans was practifed to the right: but, from Pliny again, that the Masters of the Ceremonies in France did at the same time opine, the Motion to the Left had the more religious Cast, and was confequently the more orthodox Turn of the two.

Bur waving the Decision of a Point of this Nicety and Moment in Theology, as <sup>a</sup> In adorando ---- totum Corpus circumagimus ; quod in lævam fecisse Galliæ religiosius credunt. Pin. lib. 28. cap. 2.

more

been ct in

and,

every

are in ery in-

ig our

t any

n one

pay-

1, he Carth,

alfo.

own

ay be iving

Con-

ing a rould

the

Deity

ınder

ould

y of the efent

us, nem

true ple

epnt; alse

ds.

b Ph. Quo me vertam nescio. Pa. Si Deas salutas, dextravorsum censeo. Plant. Curcul. Act. i. Sc. 1. viz. Ph. I know not which way to turn me. Pa. If you are for praying, to the right about I trow.

more proper for the Determination of the next free General Council, than the Pen of a private Divine, I shall proceed directly to the Subject of the Enquiry proposed 5.

THAT Worshiping towards the East was a Custom generally received by the old Romans, may appear from this general Maxim in their Temple-Architecture, det the Altar as look towards the East. And as to the Grecians before them, the Right Reverend Author of their Archaelogia, treating of their religious Affairs, tells us, Twas an ancient Custom among the Heathens to worship with their Faces towards the East: and in a following Chapter cites the Greek Scholiast upon Pindar remarking, That they were wont to turn their Faces towards the East when they prayed to the Gods. And our

Vol. I. p. 176.

learned

learr

have

Nati

ancie towa

into

Geren

A

tains

Prac

Nati

pref

ing

they

they

tice inest

Antwick Dife who

Sui

ligio

De 1

that which Sacr.

tells

1. 6.

not t

fame Passa

an Assembly, by offering any thing beneath the Dignity of their Consideration, let me here apprise the courteous Reader — By the Rubricks of the samous Mass, in usum Sarum, the Priest is frequently enjoin'd to his the Altar on the right Hand of the Sacrisco;—in his Marginal Notes upon which our venerable Marty-rologist very seriously demands—And why not on the left Hand as well? So that, for ought appears to me, this may be still a most Point in Divinity; a Question upon which the Doctors, Christian as well as Heathen, differ. Vide Acts and Monuments Vol. III. sub. Init. where also may be seen a Verbal Translation of the Massin English, by Coverdale.

d Aræ spectent ad Orientem. Vitrus. lib. iv. cap. ult.

The Original is thus recorded by Mr. Selden de Synedr.
lib. 3. κατά τὰς ἀναταλὰς ἐφυρεῦν τοῦς Θεοῖς.

of the

en of

fly to

is the

t was

d Ro-

laxim t the

nd as

E Re-

eating

vas an or hip

in a oliaft

Were

AST Qur

1 J.M.

Sacred

Dignity. rteaus s, in o kifs

Larty-

n the

o me,

estion

as bon.

Init.

Mais

le.

nedr.

rned

learned Spencer f, than whom few feem to have been more vers'd in Subjects of this Nature, observes in general of the yet more ancient Heathens, That to turn themselves towards the EAST, upon their first Entrance into their Temples, was accounted by them a Ceremony bigbly religious.

AND, if we go nearer yet to the Fountains of Antiquity, we shall find the same Practice in use also amongst the Oriental Nations, with whom we meet with an express Term to our present purpose, denoting the Point of the Heavens towards which they directed their divine Worship. This they called their KEBLA: for my first Notice whereof I own myself indebted to the inestimable Labours of that truly valuable Antiquary the late worthy Dean of Nor- Coned. p. wich, in his most curious and entertaining 217. Vil. I. Discourse of the SECT of the MAGIANS, whose & KEBLA, he tells us, was the RISING Sun, i. e. (as he explains himself) they alf ---- post primum Templi introitum, Ceremonia religiosa admodum apud Ethnicos antiquiores haberetur. De Leg. Heb. Rit. p. 845. Ed. Cantab. 1685.

ways

<sup>8</sup> Keblah, Kebleh, or Kibleh, an Arabick Term, that properly fignifies the Place towards which they turn, which one bath or ought to have before him, &c. Diction. Sacr. And that notable Linguist, Mr. John Gregory, tells us --- In the boly Way the East is called Kedem, i. c. the Face; --- tho' indeed Kedem properly fignifieth not the Face, but that which is before the Face, and is the Same with Kibla in the Arabick. Notes &c. upon some Passages of Scripture, p. 81. Ed. Lond. 1650.

P. 177.

ways worshiped with their Faces towards the East: which also was observed of old by Herodotus, whom Tully stiles the Father of History.

And indeed how exceeding ancient this Custom must needs have been, we may easily infer from what Dean Prideaux, upon his first mention of the Magians, informs us, viz. That in the Times, whereof he is there speaking, All the Idolatry of the World was divided between two Sests. But I much question whether we are yet at the Source, or first Rise of the Custom now enquired after; nay, I am rather satisfied we must allow it an higher Original.

FROM the first Sects of Idolatry then let our next Step be to the first Object of it, which, by the general Concurrence of ancient and modern Authors, was the SUN. In Sanchoniathon, speaking of the Worship the Phenicians and Egyptians (whom he stiles the oldest of Mortals) paid to the Sun, tells us-This God they accounted sole Lord of Heaven: And Plato writes of the first Inhabitants of Greece--- They held the Sun, &c., to be the only Gods: and that the very name Quòs, God, was originally derived from our, to h Τέτον Θεον ενόμωζον μόνον έρανε πύριον, βεελσάμων καλούντες, δ΄ εςι παρα φόμιζι κύριος έρανου. apud Euseb. lib. 1. de Præp. Evang. cap. 9.

ι Φαίνονταί μοι οι πρώτοι Τ΄ άνθρώπων περί την Ελλάδα τύτυς μόνυς θεως ή διοξ -----ήλιον, &c. Plato in Cratylo.

run, by the thus Idola
Sun:
Gal

rity nothin holy Prob an Enatur fo as more manif quissim Sacr. V

naoh

Genus dam, i obtigit cuum p. 330.

the gre tries.

the most of the Cle plus Soleil:

run,

the

by

r of this

nay

pon

rms

he

the

t I

the

QW

ied

it,

an-

1. h

the

les

ells

ea-bi-

Bc.

me

to.

ca-

ib.

785

2.

run, alluding to the constant Courses performed by the beavenly Bodies. Ludovicus Cappellus thus declares his Opinion, The most ancient Idolatry of all seems to have been that of the Sun: with whom Vossius, Stilling sleet, Gale, Jurieu, &c. do entirely accord.

But suppose we had not their Authority to warrant our Belief; yet, as we have nothing to the contrary in the Records of holy Writ, the very Reasonableness, or Probability of the Fact, may be admitted as an Evidence in the Case. That Mankind is naturally prone to Superstition and Idolatry, so as to worship and serve the Creature even more than the Creator, is a Truth but too manifest from the Experience of all Ages as Quæ (viz. Solis Adoratio) omnium prima & antiquissima videtur suisse Idololatria: Annotat. apud Crit. Sacr. Vol. IX. Col. 3837.

1 Nempe ut paulatim ab uno veroque Numine recessit Genus Humanum; ita sensim, & quasi gradibus quibus-dam, i πολυθιότης cepit incrementa; primum Soli divinus obtigit Honos; quia nihil eo sensibus nostris vel conspicuum magis vel acceptum. Voss. de Theol. Gentil. lib. ii. p. 330.

m The Worship of the Sun was, as far as we can learn, the great and most early Idolatry of the Eastern Countries. Orig. Sacr. 40 1662. p. 44.

n The Supreme Object (of natural Theology) was, for the most part, some Planetary Deity; first the Sun alone. Court of the Gentiles, Part I. p. 215.

o Monsieur Jurieu, having argued for the Antiquity of the Chaldeans, concludes, Or il est certain aussi, que le plus ancien Culte des Chaldeens c'étoit celui du Soleil: Histoire des Dogmes, &c. p. 407.

Rom.i.25. well as St. Paul's; and that of all the Works of the Creation, the Sun first engaged their Devotion may be held more than probable. if we confider only its Appearance and Ef-with whom !

writing Scc., do entirely, accord

THE former was incomparably the most glorious of all their Eyes beheld; infomuch that on this account alone the Sun is justly enough faid by our Poet to --- look like the God of the new World: and by the divine Pf.cxxxvi. Pfalmist expressly afferted to be made --- to rule by Day: Holy Job mentions the very Sight of it as a P Temptation; and Moses as a 4 Compulsion to adore it. Nor shall we find the Effects of the Sun, if we confider its Usefulness to Mankind, less glorious than its Appearance, or less attractive of Adoration: So that fome have been ready to apologize for, and even excuse the Idolatry

Par. loft lib. 4. 8.

How

P If I beheld the Sun when it shined -- - and my Heart bath been secretly inticed. Job xxxi. 26, 27.

voffius, speaking of the Benefits of Light only, bas this Expression --- Lucem rem esse omnino divinam ostendunt. De Orig. &c. Idolatr. lib. ii. p. 314.

There

of t

and

rece

nefi

of th fifta

whe

ficie.

thing

bave

vine

post

their

able

134 0

The.

Confid

have i wheret

very a of the Scripto ozon O De im first E curfum

nostra

add, th dicial .

among ft

of Idola

the Hy

very D

an unive on Polit directly

can rati Part I:

<sup>9</sup> Least thou lift up thine Eyes to Heaven, and when thou feeft the Sun, &c. shouldest be driven to worship them. Deut. iv. 16.

And Monfieur Jurieu scruples not to affirm, De toutes les Erreurs il n'y en a pas une qui foit plus supportable, que celle de ceux qui ont pris le Soleil pour une Dieu; car cet Astre est si beau, si plein des Traits de la Divinité, qu' on a bien pû facilement prendre la Copie pour l'Original. Hiftoire Critique, p. 406. Ed. Amft. 1704 of the first Race of Men towards this great and excellent Luminary. As they fenfibly received from the Sun those inestimable Benefits of Light, Heat, and the Production of the Fruits of the Earth, (their then Subfistance) we may reasonably imagine, that, where Revelation or Reflexion did not fufficiently interpose, 'twas by the Sun all things appeared to them to live, move, and bave their Being; that just Foundation of divine Honour and Homage which the A- Acts avii. postle so elegantly ascribes to God himself: 28. their crime therefore was the more pardonable as it was the more natural: And, to modern thrate in treations are kereat to re-

There may be farther also offered in their behalf, the Confideration of the Influence which the Heavenly Bodies have upon the human, with respect to the Distempers whereto they are subject; of this it seems Physicians were very apprehensive from the Beginning. One of the greatest of the present Age tells us, the very first Writers (ultimi Scriptores) of the Fatulty are full of it, and what his own Opinion is may be seen from the Title of his Book, De imperio Solis, &c. and what he engages to skew in his first Entrance upon bis Subject; viz. Solis Lunæque cursum, pro variis eorum Stationibus, varie Corpora nostra afficere. To this, I think, we need only farther add, the Hypothesis of that most ancient Science of Judicial Aftrology which Mr. Gale tells us began to flourish amongst the Chaldeans and Egyptians even in the Beginning of Idolatry: and concludes in these words --- If we grant the Hypothesis which Judicial Astrologers bave to this very Day contended for; that these Celestial Bodies have an universal Influence, not only on natural Bodies, but also on Politick States, yea, on the Spirits of Men, and that directly; this, I say, being granted, I cannot see how we can rationally deny them a Deity. Court of the Gentiles, Part I. p. 219.

В

to

There

orks

their

able. IE

Sun:

most nuch

uftly

the

ivine

-- to

very

es as We

fider than ora-

y to

latry

Ot

Heart

when

them.

s this often-

toutes

table,

Dieu;

rinité,

l'Ori

come to my Point, as the Sun was, upon this account the most pardonable, I see no reason but that we may conclude it was also the most primitive, or first Object of Idolatry in the World.

This being a fix'd Point: That the Custom of worshiping towards the East was an original Custom with the Worshipers of the Sun, and consequently coeval, at least, with Idolatry itself, will be easily supposed: for what more natural in such a Case than for Men to salute the Return of their God; to wait for his Uprising; (as the modern Phrase is) to attend his Levee; to reverence his Appearance; and to be ready to pay their Court the Moment he presents himself?

WE must allow then the Custom of worshiping towards the East is sounded in Reason and Nature, with respect to all that worshiped the Sun: And as that Worship became the most universal of all other, spreading itself by degrees into every Nation under the Sun (for, says one, the Universe is his Temple+) no wonder this Custom, which arrose from the same Fountain, should run the same Course, and become universal also; whence, no doubt, have we the Proverb in use to this Day, --- All the World worships the rising Sun.

Вит

wh

Cu

of

ma

Co

tur

tra

eve

De

for

WO

deg

De

Wa

Que

fome

of t

upo

bov

the very bad

Sur

rofe,

Dev

& fort prove quocu

rentur

hb. ii.

<sup>4</sup> Mundus universus est templum solis. Alex. ab. Alex. lib. ii. cap. 22.

this

rea-

alfo

Ido-

di la

the

was pers

, at fupch a n of

s the

o re-

self?

word in that beead-

un-

is bis

ch a-

run l al-

verb Ships

· ab

UT

Bur, as it is feen in many other Cases, when once Reason has made a Custom, that Custom shall maintain itself without the Assistance of Reason, and perhaps in Desiance to it; so may it appear in the present Case: for in Confequence of the general, and indeed natural, Rule by me laid down in the Entrance of this Discourse, that, in worshiping every one should address bimself towards the Deity be adores, it being become customary for all the Adorers of the Rifing-Sun to worship towards the East, it became, by degrees, customary also, with Men at their Devotion, still to direct their Worship the same Way, tho' the Sun were got into some other Quarter of the Heavens, or they were adoring fome other Deity.

This I find to have been the Sentiment of two very learned Men, who have touch'd upon this Subject before me, and stand above cited in this Discourse: The Words of the first may be thus translated: --- It is very likely the Custom was very ancient, and had its beginning with the first Idolatry of the Sun; viz. for Men to worship it generally as it rose, and so, whenever they were about any Devotion to turn themselves towards the East.

Lib. ii. p. 320. Ed. Amft. 1641.

Perantiquum etiam essentique estiam essentique etiam essentique etiam tempore, ad Orientem conversi precarentur Deum. Vossius de Origine & Progressu Idololatria.

B 2 The

The other Passage referred to I have literally rendered as follows: --- Besides these Places where they worshiped the Sun, without doubt they worshiped it also in all their Temples, and in all their other places of abode, at its coming above the Horizon; and THENCE came the Custom always to turn themselves towards the East, in all the Sacrifices they offered to the celestial Deities.

michaella emonad anich i rie who e cultomair

Some Exceptions indeed I meet with to this general Rule; but it will foon appear to any one confulting the Point, That thus to worship towards the EAST was the common, tho' not constant, Custom of the Heathen World, from the first Entrance of Idolatry into it: But as that is an Occurrence that bears no Date, fome supposing it before, fome not till after the Flood, we cannot be exact as to the precise time when it began; nor, consequently as to the Beginning of the fo much celebrated religious Custom, which is the Subject of our present Enquiry; for tho' I humbly conceive, it has been evidently shewn, not to be at all inferior in Antiquity to Idolatry itself; yet beyond this I shall not pretend to trace it,

odT

Ат

1

Wit

den

has

Ad

war

cipa

Cer

and

into

Inst

He

and

ven.

mift

trul

Adı

they

upo

or v

we

11

ford,

fent .

i. e.
ed Tr
in th Man

for th

ALK

and I

dorat

Rom

Mitio

futat

u

dans doubte ils l'adoroient dans touts leurs Temples, & dans toutes leur demeures, lors qu'il sortoit de dessus l'Horizon: --- & de la est venuë la Coûtume de se tourner toûjours du côté de l'Orient dans tous les Sacrifices qui se faisoient aux Dieux celestes. Histoire critique des Dogmes & des Cultes, &c. p. 716.

ally

laces

oubt

and

ming

the

the

the

1 to

pear

thus

com-Hea-

Ido-

ence

be-

we

hen

Beious fent has

nfe-

be-

oleil,

s, & leffus

le se

acri-

tique

AT

AT the same time I am not unapprised, with what Vehemence a certain learned "Academick, of no small Fame in his Generation, has contended; The whole World, even from Adam down to Abraham's time, worshiped towards the EAST; that it was an original, principal, and ought to have been an everlasting Ceremony; but that, by an Error of the Persian and Chaldean Worshipers, it baving degenerated into an Idolatry to the Sun, Abraham, by the Instinct of God, appointed out the West to his Hebrews; and that therefore the Tabernacle and Temple were set towards that Side of Heaven, God in the mean time seeming to leave bis mistaken Place in the EAST: --- And these truly are Notions that do not want their Admirers at this Day; but as, in the main, they appear to me to be grounded only upon Talmudick Fables, and Arabian Tales, or what (in one Sense of the Word indeed) we may call Comments on the Bible, I shall, u Mr. John Gregory, sometime of Christ Church in Oxford, in his Notes and Observations above cited. p. 84. Who had also well nigh sinish a particular Treatise upon the present Subject, and under the same Title, viz. ALKIBLA, i. e. The Kibla, whereto he refers us p. 19. but this learned Tract, it seems, was lost, which the Editor of his Works, in the acount of his Life presix'd, laments in this pathetick Manner: --- And here, Reader! I cannot but drop a Tear for the loss of that his excellent Piece, entituled by himself ALKIBLA: in which Tract, with very great Judgment and Learning, he vindicated the Antiquity of Eastward Adoration, as far beyond an Altar or a Crucifix, (the Romish Bounds) as the Flood precedes in time these superstitious Distinctions of the Christian: Which gallant Refutation of the Popish Error, I the rather mention, &c.

for the present, leave them as I found them, and the rather, because they will more properly offer themselves to Examination hereafter.

I DOUBT not but God, by his own gracious Appointment, was worshiped of our first-fathers before any other Being; yet can I see no just Grounds, either in Reason or Record, that should induce them, in their Adoration of him, to turn towards the E As T, more than towards any other Quarter in the Heavens.

For, first, as to the Reason, or Nature of the Thing, (as I have above hinted) it seems to me an Absurdity to imagine that he, who is by Nature equally in all Places, should be more especially in any one Place, or that we should fancy him so to be, without any sensible Appearance of it. Our great * Spencer, I must confess, seems to declare his Opinion, That were it lest to the Judgment of Men to decide which way God should be worshiped, the East would certainly have the Preserence: And I am the more surprised at it, because he delivers this Opinion in the midst of a Discourse, the main Scope whereof is to shew, That the West fiden came came with thing contr

tion

standi

with t

Ancients

An

hac

app

left

fho

lear

tion

estet

Tud

icer

ter

in 1

A

Mai

the

into

cour

that

God.

of th

in th

x Siquid humano Judicio, in Sede vel Throno Numinis eligendo, tribuendum esset; Homines proculdubiò æquo & decoro multo magis convenire judicarent, ut Deus (qui Lux est & Lucem inaccessam habitat) in loco aliquo versus Orientem habitaret: & c. De Leg. Heb. Rit. p. 846.

m, ro-

re-

Parel

ra-

our

yet

on eir

T. the

ure

it

hat

es,

ce,

be,

Dur

ms

to

vay

er-

the

ers

the

the.

inis

quo

qui rlus

nts

enter inter

vi Audi

Ancients (who by some are thought to have had the use of Reason, nor does any thing appear to the contrary, but that they were left free to follow it in this particular,) did certainly worship towards the WEST: but I should be still more surpris'd had not the learned Doctor introduced this his Observation with a Siquid bumano Judicio tribuendum effet, were any regard to be had to Man's Judgment in the Cafe; whereby to me he feems fairly to yield, he was not certain, after all, Reason could determine any thing in the Matter.

And if Recourse be had to Revelation; a Man, unless he be throughly devoted to the Caufe, and of a fanguine Constitution into the Bargain, will meet with little Encouragement (as far as I can fee) to believe, that this Eastward Adoration was originally of God: for, in a word, 'tis the very reverse of that practis'd in his own House: for God, in the Temple, having made choice of the West-End wherein to manifest his own Re- p. 217. sidence, this (as Dean Prideaux observes) became the KEBLA of the Jews, and all that entered into the Temple to worship God, did it with their Faces to the WEST: nor was any thing a greater Offence to his People, than the contrary Posture; as is evident from that chap. viii. remarkable Passage of Ezekiel, where mention is made of the Abomination of 25 Men standing in the Court of the Lord's House with their faces towards the E AST: for which

ubi Supra

Deut. iv.

16.

very Reason (as the Dean y observes) They were looked upon as Apostates that had changed their Religion, and were gone over to the Worship of the MAGI, i. e. the Idolatry of the Sun. To prevent which also we find Moses, in his Time, cautioning the Israelites in the most folemn manner, not so much as to look up to Heaven itself in their Devotions; and holy Job, who disputes Antiquity with Moses, and even with Abraham himfelf, disclaims the Practice now before us a Crime: If, fays he, I bebeld the Sun when it shin'd; i. e. (as both the > y The Authority of so competent a Judge in the Case I chose to lay in fight, the better to obviate an Objection, which may here arise; viz. That the Crime, charged by the Prophet on the 25 Persons aforesaid, was, not simply worshiping towards the East, but worshiping the Sun towards the EAST; that therefore, not the Posture, but Object of their Worship was the Abomination: To which I reply, 'twas both the one and the other; and to what is said above, I shall only defire to have added, - - - First, That it was (which also has been alread noted) a received Opinion amongst the Jews, that in opposition to the Idolatry of the Sun, their father Abraham taught them, by the Direction of God himself, to worship towards the WEST: no evonder therefore that by them a Change in the Posture of Devotion was regarded as a Change in Religion: Again; that it was with the Jews a Notion (as in due place also will appear) current even to a Proverb, That the Majesty of God was in the West: which certainly, within the Courts of the Temple, could not be denied them; for any Person therefore There to turn bis Face to the East, must have been in common Construction to turn his Back to God: and so might be literally termed, what the learned Dean stiles it, an APOSTACY; the very Suspicion of which, right or wrong, is ABOMINATION enough with the People, and with the Prophets, of all Religions even to this Day!

Syriack

Syr pea I pi

B Opp Goo by vou Man the ! Dr. denc more Succe tholic impl Buil Vitra Emp feeme obser fo tra as far

tars

2 Hi ctam t Templa Religio minatu

* Ara pectare Syriack and Arabick express it) at its Appearing or Rising: as who should fay --- If I pray'd, or turn'd towards the EAST.

bey

nged

orun.

his

nost

o to

tob,

ven

tice

be-

the

I III

bose

bich Pro-

bip-

ards

A of

ply, da-

it it

nion the ecti-

na

e of

will of urts rson rave

and

iles

ight

the

to

ack

0.00

But notwithstanding this early and open Opposition from the Servants of the true God, in time the EAST prevail'd; and, by degrees, became the most general favourite KEBLA of all the idolatrous Part of Mankind; and thus it stood triumphant in the Reign of Augustus Casar, during which Dr. Spencer produces a very express Evidence, 2 that tho' the contrary was indeed the more primitive Custom, This, by the Humour of succeeding Ages, at length obtained to be the Catholick Practice: which also was sufficiently implyed by that general Rule for Altar-Building above-cited from the Architect Vitruvius, who flourished under the same Emperour, and who again tells us, * There seemed to be a Necessity for placing all the Altars of the Gods towards the EAST.

AND here give me leave only farther to observe, before I proceed, that we may alfo trace back this Eastern Position of Altars, as far as the Reign of, that most renowned

* Aras omnes Deorum necesse esse videatur ad Orientem spectare: De Archit. lib. iv. c. 5.

<sup>2</sup> His, in majorem rei fidem, Hygeni difertum subnectam testimonium: --- Antiqui Architecti in Occidentem Templa spectare, recte scripserunt: postea placuit omnem Religionem eò convertere, ex qua parte Cœli Terra illuminatur : De Leg. Heb. Rit. p. 845.

He

ed

trie

afte

the

had gav

Qu

to t ther

upo

fron

date

For

look

will

was

the f

men

most

parti

tury.

on th

of th

tion many shall

were

have

bria

onem p

0.11

b N Christi quissim c Inc

nect. p. 216, &c.

Vid. Con- Prince and Pope of the Magicans, Zoroafter; who so ordered the matter, that All, who came to worship, might approach them on the West-Side; that so having their Faces towards the Altar, and also towards the rising Sun at the same time, they might direct their Worship towards both: and in this Posture, (adds Dean Prideaux) they always performed every Part of their Worship: and farther he tells us, That to worship before the Sun was not a new Institution of Zoroaster, but the antient Usage of that Sect; who, as it falls out, have herein left an Example, with respect to which it may justly enough be faid, the WORLD is gone after them: for my present purpose it may fuffice to have recourse only (once again) to the Romans, in the Period and Paffage last referr'd to in Vitruvius, wherein he tells us, there was an apparent Necessity, all the Altars of the Gods should look towards the East; which he grounds upon this, viz. That so People at their Devotion might at once address themselves towards the ALTAR and the EAST.

Thus then stood the Case when our blesi Theff. ii. fed Saviour came upon Earth to turn men from idols to serve the living and true God and, indeed, with me he needs no other Proof of his Divinity than his miraculous Success in this particular: But the the

Heathen

Et ita Vota suscipientes contueantur Aram & Orientem Coeli: Vitr. ubi. fupaster;

who

n the

wards un at orsbip

Dean

Part

s us,

new

Usage

here-

which

RLD

rpole

(once

and

here-

cessity,

wards

VIZ.

at once

ana

r blef-

nen men

other culous

Orien-

athens

Heathens did reject their Gods, they retained their Kebla; at least it was soon retrieved, and became more generally receiv'd after, than before, the Æra of Christ; for the convert Jews, who were of them that had most signally opposed it, henceforth gave up their Point; fo that from this Quarter came a confiderable Reinforcement to the Observers of the Eastern Mode: which therefore was so far from receiving any check upon this great Revolution in Religion, that from this very time may we most properly date its universal Prevalence or Reception. For I suppose no man, who pretends to have looked into the Antiquities of the Church, will deny that worshiping towards the EAST was a very early and very general Custom in the fame: Of this we need no other Argument than the frequent mention made of it by the most antient Christian Authors b: Tertullian in particular, who flourished in the second Century, acknowledges, Christians were then, on this very account, taken for Worshipers of the SUN. But as this was an Imputation they utterly disclaimed, and assigned many other Reasons for their Practice, I shall produce about half a Score of such as were most current in the primitive Times, or have fince been thought original. Tho' to b Nos fatemur haud inviti vetustissimum in Ecclesia Christiana fuisse Ritum, cum illius mentio siat ab antiquissimis Patribus: Gerbardi Loc. de extremo Judicio. p. 60. e Inde suspicio, quod innotuerit Nos ad Orientis Regi-onem precari: Apol. 16. p. 688. Folio, Ed. Parif. 1580.

fpeak my mind. I do not think the good Fathers &c. extreamly happy in their choice of the said Reasons; and shall therefore, with all dutiful Submission, take the Liberty to make some brief Observations thereupon, as I proceed: and that I may be the less obnoxious to the Imputation, either of ignorantly misapprehending, or wilfully misrepresenting the Sense of the Fathers on this occasion, I shall chuse to express it in the Words of fuch of our approved Authors, as have been most justly celebrated for their Learning, Judgment, and Integrity; nor do I conceive it necessary (fince my utmost Ambition is not a full Margin) to trouble my Reader, or myself, with making many more References, than what they have already made to our Hands.

See also c. iii. 8.

FIRST, then, 'tis alleg'd the primitive Christians prayed towards the E As T; Because the East is a Title given to Christ in the Old Testament; for which they cite Zech, vi. 12. which, from the Septuagint, they translated, --- Behold the Man whose name is the EAST d. But this Translation of theirs the accurate Author of that most excellent Treatife, entitled --- An Enquiry into the Con-Stitution &c. of the Primitive Church, clearly shews to have been a Mistake, arising from the Ambiguity of a Greek Word, and enternitritate i fried in bund rumptet ac

the

th

H

as an

cic

lv

tha

it (

ph

Ifa

tha

An

Te

out

mo

do

reg

mo on mu

BR

and

gro

tha

Lo

E

yet

a V

fail

on fur

phe for d Justin. Martyr. Cent. 2. Καὶ ἄλλη ἡ γραφη φήσιν, ίδε ἀνης ᾿Ανατολή ἄνομα αὐτῶ. Dialog, cum Tryph. p. 334, See, The Enquiry, Part ii. p. 19.

Fa-

Dice

ore,

erty

on,

ob-

ant-

ent-

to a

een

ing,

eive n is

, or

ces,

our

tive cause

Old

. 12.

nsla-

the

the rea-

Con-

learifing

and

v, id's

. 334

the

the Fathers not understanding the Original Hebrew, which ought to have been rendered. as in our own Translation it is, the BRANCH, and not the EAST. To what this most judicious Writer has there observed, I shall only add, in Vindication of our English BIBLE, that by thus rendering the Text, it has made it exactly to accord with the foregoing Prophecies on the occasion both in Feremiab and Isaiah. Behold the days come, faith the Lord, that I will raise unto David a righteous branch: Jer. xxiii. And there shall come a rod out of the stem of 5. Jesse, (saith Isaiab) and a branch shall grow cb. xi. 1. out of his ROOTS. --- Thus is the Harmony of the Prophets preserved: And I doubt not but our old Translators had some regard, in their pious Labours, to the Harmony of Sense also; which (under Correction) in the present Case may be likewise much better preferved, by affirming of a Branch, that (not to fay any thing of Root and Stem) it shall be brought forth; that it shall grow up; that it shall be raised and prosper; than by predicating (pardon me for once a Logical Term) the fame Things of the EAST; which, I must confess, I am not yet Philosopher enough to demonstrate to be a Vegetable. No to tothicle of daying on radi

If then the Foundation should be found to fail, the Superstructure of the Fathers must fall on course: for I cannot suppose them so absurd as to have argued; Do not the Prophets call our Saviour the BRANCH? Therefore do we worship towards the EAST: Nor, indeed,

t

V

11 tl

fe b

P

th

Ca

O

F

ar

B th

he

indeed, does there appear to me any cogent Inference in the Case, if we admit the other Translation; for our Saviour calls himself Joh. x. 9. the Door: but what then, may not a Man say his Prayers at Church without staring out at the Porch?

Pag 91.

I'm might therefore be, I suppose, of no very formidable Consequence, tho' it were true, which the Rational Illustrator (as he stiles himself) of the Book of Common-Prayer affirms, viz. --- in Zech. iii. 8. and vi. 12. The Meffiab is called the BRANCH; and in Luk. i. 78. The Day-Spring; in all which Places the original Words fignify the EAST, and are so rendered in all other Versions of the Bible. I fay, --- If this Affertion were as true, as 'tis positive, it would not be exceedingly to the Purpose. --- But this ingenuous Gentleman, I doubt not, when he has once confulted the faid Originals and Versions with his own Eyes, will take a proper opportunity to let the World know, he was a little over credulous in the matter . But, to close my Observations upon this protoprimitive Reason for worshiping towards the E As T, I cannot but profess; Glad am I, that no pagan Sophister of old happened to e How much more bappily has Tacitus expressed bimself on occasion of this so mistaken Prophecy! viz. Pluribus PERSUASIO inerar, antiquis Sacerdotum Literis contineri, eo ipso tempore sore, ut valesceret ORIENS; i. e. Many were under a Persuasion; or, there was a very common Notion got amongst them, That &c. Hist. Lib. v. discover

ent

ther

rfelf

Man

ring

no

he

on-

and

H ;

all

the

ions

ex-

in

he

and

ro-

he

ut,

to-

rds

ıI,

to

ifelf ibus eris NS; very

V.

ver

discover the weak Side of it; with what Triumph and Insult would such an one have cried out --- The Christian Doctors do not understand the sacred Books themselves, which contain the Mysteries and Principles of their own Prosession; but are as wide in their Notions from the true Sense and Interpretation of them, as EARTH from HEAVEN!

A SECOND Reason, in Point of Time, which I meet with for Christians worshiping towards the East is this, viz. Because of the Similitude of the Rising of the Sun, with our Spiritual Arising out of the Darkness of Sin and Corruption.

But if the Sun, according to modern Systems, should happen not to rise at all, there then can be no more Similitude or Resemblance betwixt our Case and his, than betwixt Rising and not Rising. Besides, suppose the contrary: I have no Notion, how the Sun should be in Darkness, and therefore can as little conceive how he should rise out of it; whetever he is, is Day, himself is Day: For if the Sun were benighted as oft as we are, whence has the Moon her Brightness? By all moderate People therefore it may be thought a little hard, the Sun cannot be supposed to shine upon the Earth, unless he shines thro it: And for us to make

f Clem. Alex. Cent. ii. Strom. Lib. vii. p. 520. See The Enquiry, Part 2. p. 20.

do

Ři

fpe

it

the Pa

bu

it; M

and

IS

tio ma

tha

to mig fee

fely fibl

the

the

the

Quæ

Chri

Vol. in M

per ]

this most resplendent of all the Heavenly Bodies, which has shone from the Creation of the World, and will shine on to the Conflagration of it, a daily Emblem of our rifing out of Darkness, is making such an Emblem as might puzzle the ingenious Mr. Quarles himself, (upon second Thoughts) to find out the Resemblance: at least, if this be the Case, we need not scruple to apply to it that old Observation I have somewhere met with in Rhetorick, nibil est in rerum Natură unde SIMILE duci non potest; viz. At this Rate there is nothing in Nature, but may serve to make an EMBLEM.

Origen. Cent. 3. Enquiry, ubi supra

A THIRD Reason assigned is -- To denote our Diligence in the Service of God, in being more forward to arise and set about it, than the Sun to run bis Courfe. But here again, if the Sun move not, it can be no great Merit to be stirring before him; and if he does move, it can be no small Vanity to boast of out-doing him. The Prophane perhaps would think it no more than a primitive Gasconade. But this Reason has a Text to it: but it happens to Wisd. xvi. be an Apocryphal one, and that too quite foregin to the purpose, as will appear to any one, who will take the Pains to confider the genuine Sense of it; not forgetting that the Author was a Jew, i. e. a Man of a quite contrary Kebla. 'Tis a Reason also, which to me feems to favour of the poetick Hypothesis, viz. That when the Sun set, he put up his Steeds, went to bed, and fometimes loitered in the Lap of Tethys. In fine, I do not see how this Notion can give any ghostly Consolation, unless to your early Risers only; the first Glance of Sunshine spoils the Conceit, and the very Spirit of it vanishes with the Morn.

nly

of of

fla-

fing

lem

out

the

it

met

Na-

At

may

de-

eing

the

the

to ve,

doink

this

to

fo-

the the nite

ich

po-

put nes

I

do

A FOURTH Reason given is, 8 -- That the East is the most bonourable and excellent Part of the World. And I do not at all doubt but this most excellent Reason came out of it; so natural a Prejudice in the Minds of Men is the Preference of their own Country; and the pleasantest Instance I have met withal, is amongst that most excellent Eastern Nation the Chinese, who have, time out of mind, maintained, no other Country produces Men that see with both Eyes. Yet some again are apt to think, They, of all People on the Earth, might have held their Tongues, fince they seem to look a little upon the narrow themselves; and, thanks to Nature, we have vifibly our Eyes as wide open as theirs.

YET why, in particular, is the EAST the most honourable and excellent Part of the Creation? viz. Because it is the Seat, say the Fathers, of Light and Brightness. But ubi supra Sorig. de Oratione: See the Enquiry, ubi supra: Item Quæstiones ad Orthodox. Qu. 118. See Dr. Cave's Prim. Christ. Part I. p. 288. And Mr. Bingham's Antiquities, Vol. V. Pag. 278. Item S. Aug. lib. ii. de Ser. Dom. in Monte, cap. v. de quo vide Bishop Sparrow's Rationale per Downes, p. 28.

D what

what will Peoples Antipodes fay to this, with whom the Sun sets as its rises to them, and rises as it sets to them? I readily grant the SUN to be the Fountain, at least to Mankind, of Light and Brightness; but am not apprehensive our East, exclusive of it, has any more Light, or Brightness, than any other Quarter under the Heavens.

But there seems not to have been a Reason more generally embraced and professed by the Fathers, than what I shall now mention in the fifth Place: viz. That the East was the Place of Paradise, our antient Habitation and Country, which we lost in the first Adam by the Fall, and to which we hope to be restored again, as to our native Abode and Rest in the second Adam, Christ our Saviour. These Considerations, I say, are an Argument for Eastward Adoration which has been graced by many of the greatest Names in Christian Story.

But, pace tantorum Virorum, we have a more fure Word, to which we shall do well Col. iii. 1, to take heed; which saith, If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, Luk. xii. where Christ sitteth at the right hand of God: Set your affections on things above, not on things of the earth; for where your treasure is, there will your beart

Th

ac

tha

mig nov

Th

fpe

us, of t

Th

our

LY

ven

ent

duc

bra

Opin

the

Ear

ring

curr

of hon)

tenc

Rec

i I

Scientextrav

I. p. 4

this C

Lacta

O.

h Basil. Greg. Nyss. Athanas. Cyrillus, Chrysostom. &c. See Mr. Bingham's Antiquities, Vol. V. p. 278.

to be Reft hefe for aced stian

his,

em,

rant

to

but

e of

than

Read by

nen-

AST

Tabi-

first

ve a well risen bove, : Set of the your oftom.

beart

beart be also Again another Scripture faith, They that fay fuch things declare plainly they feek a country, and truly if they bad been mindful of that country from whence they came out, they might have had opportunity to have returned: but now they defire a better country, i.e. an beavenly. The fame Author also in the next Chapter, speaking of the Christian Dispensation, tells us, Ye are come unto mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God, the HEAVENLY JERUSALEM. The present Argument therefore for turning our Eyes and our Hearts towards an EARTH-LY JERUSALEM, tho' espoused by so many venerable Fathers, feems to be grounded entirely upon the Millenarian Scheme introduced by Papias; who, the fo justly celebrated Dupin tells us, gave Rife to a common Hist.ofthe Opinion in the three first Centuries, that before Church, the Day of Judgment Christ should reign upon Earth a thousand Years with his Elect; during which Term also, according to the then current Notion, Jerusalem was to be the Seat of his Empire. An Opinion (not to fay Vision) which, notwithstanding its allowed Pretences to primitive Antiquity i, and general Reception by the greatest Men of old in the

Heb. xi. 14, 15.

Heb. xii.

i Il y a eu plusieurs anciens Docteurs renommez en Science & Sainteté, qui se sont laissez emporter a cette extravagance: Histoire de l'Eglise, &c. par le Sueur, Tom. 1. p. 492, item 556, &c. This Author, amongst others of this Opinion, names Justin, Irenæus, Tertullian, Cyprian, Lactantius, Athanasius, Cyril of Jerusal. Basil, Ambrose, O 6:

Church

Church of Christ, has been now so long universally exploded, or, at least, obsolete, that no more needs be said of it at present, than that it can raise in us but very slender Expectations from the Holy Land, tho we should turn to it seven times a Day. When Crusado was the Word indeed it might have had its Consequences.

Bur again; This is an Argument for turning to the East, which would oblige half Mankind to turn their backs upon it: for that all Nations to the Eastward of the supposed Situation of the new Jerusalem, by Virtue of the fame Argument, must face about to the WEST, tho' in direct Opposition to, and in the very Teeth of the four first ingenious Reasons above-shewn to the contrary. --- But these things, I doubt not, will be easily reconciled by the learned Magi of the Age, those fast Friends to the RISING SUN. Tho' honest Dr. Cave indeed says, for his Part, how it can be done, he is not able to imagine; and yet all Sides talk of no less than Apostolical Tradition and Practice.

Prim. Chrift. Part I. p. 289.

But leaving this Point to be adjusted by those whom it may more concern, amongst the Argumentstaken from the Fathers on the present Subject, the fixth Place I shall assign to a Passage in Lastantius, Book II, Chap. x. We have already heard how the the East is the Fountain of Light and Brightness; but here we have a Father tells us --- 'Tis God himself who is this Fountain,

and

n

O

Si

in

W

ha

he

th

Sp

R

VO

the

at

in

per

Illu

fica

the town

Jay

Par

crun

and the Illuminator of all things, and that therefore the EAST is afcribed to him.

tinithat han Ex-

we

hen

ave

for lige

for

up-

Vir-

out to,

eni-

ary.

the

UN. his

e to less

by

igft

the

af-

II,

the

and

ain, and

Or this Argument some one perhaps may fay, as certain of our own Poets upon another occasion, --- 'Tis but by way of Simile: Give me leave then farther to obferve, - - - That, if there be any occasion in divine Worship to address ourselves towards fome Object refembling God in the Qualities above-specified, the SUN furely has the best Claim to our regard, whether he be East or WEST, and especially in the South, where he appears in the greatest Splendor: This then being admitted as a Rule, we ought to vary our Position in Devotion every hour of the Day, praying in the Morning with the Magians to the East, at Noon with the Turks to the South 1, and in the Evening with the Jews to the WEST.

WE may in this Place also not improperly consider the famous Saying of Ter-R Oriens Deo accensetur, quia Ipse Luminis sons, & Illustrator est Rerum: See Bingham's Origines Ecclesiastica, Vol. V. p. 279.

tullian,

The Mahometans more particularly call that Part of the World where Mecca is situated by the name of Keblah; towards which they are obliged to turn themselves when they say their Prayers; and because Mecca is situated towards the South, this word Kebla is often taken for the South Part of the Heavens and the Earth: Dictionarium Sacrum.

tullian, Orientem Christi Figuram! m The EAST.

that Emblem of Christ! --- Had the Father been called upon, I am apt to think he must have explained himself to mean the Sun in the EAST: By the same Liberty, with the same Emphasis and Propriety, may we also say aloud, --- Meridiem Christi Figuram! viz. That the South rather, in his present State, is Christ's Emblem; the South, I fay, where the Sun receives his highest Exaltation, and shines triumphant in the brightest Throne of his Glory. But in truth, I could never see any just Authority we Christians have to worship God by Figures which he hath not appointed: The Jews, 'tis plain, were strictly prohibited it, and pretty sharply reprov'd for it: To whom (fays the Prophet) will ye liken God? or what likeness Ma. xl. 18. will ye compare unto bim? And Moses in the fame Chapter where he cautions the People against facing to the Sun &c. in divine Deutiv.15 Service, has these words; --- Take ye therefore good beed unto yourselves; for ye saw no manner of similitude on the day that the Lord spake unto you in Horeb, out of the midst of the fire. Now a Figure or Emblem is but another Word for a Similitude or Likeness, m Nostræ Columbæ Domus simplex, etiam in editis femper & apertis & ad Lucem; amat Figuram Spiritus Sancti, Orientem Christi Figuram : Contra Valentin. cap. 3.

or Image; and I think nothing can be clearer than it is from the aforesaid Chapter,

t

t

V

th

ft

th

in

in

bi

w

w

th

on

tu

the

tur

an n con inac bita

luce

NO'n

T,

er

he

be

ty,

ay Fi-

his

th,

est

he

th,

we

res

tis

tty

the

re/s

the

ple

ine

79-

no

ord

of

out

be ap-

ditis

itus

tin.

ter,

ter, that we are forbid to worship God by any such Mediums, whether of Nature, Art, or Fancy; the Reason whereof has been above implied, and may farther appear in the Course of this Disquisition.

But there can be no time more proper than the present, to pay a just Attention to the Sentiments of our profess'd Ritualist, the very eminent Dr. Spencer, so often cited in this Discourse; who having given us his Remarks upon the western Situation of the Jewish Sanctum Sanctorum, seems to declare strongly in favour of the East, and puts the Argument last before us upon this footing, viz. That God being Light, and dwelling in Light, therefore should his Servants worship him towards that Part of the Heavens from whence the World receives its Light n. To which I think it may be fairly replied, that tho' we must allow the Premises, in some one Sense to be Truth, because they are Scripture o: yet can I see no Obligation to grant the Conclusion, because 'tis plain the Scripture did allow the contrary Practice; nay, and treats, what the Doctor here espouses, as an n Homines proculdubio Æquo & Decoro multo magis convenire judicarent, ut Deus, qui Lux est, & Lucem inaccessam habitat, in Loco aliquo versus Orientem habitaret, & illius Servi versus Plagam unde Mundus illucescit eum adorarent: De Leg. Heb. Rit. &c. p. 846.

Abomination

o God is light, 1 Joh. i. 5. dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto: 1 Tim. vil 16.

Abomination P. And the' the Doctor will have it to be clear to any Man reading the Law, that the Jews received not any thing in command from God for erecting the Santium Sanctorum Westward 9; I herein also beg leave to differ from him, as conceiving this Affertion to proceed only from his own Inadvertency; who, scarce three Pages before, had told us, ' --- The Tabernacle bad its Holy of Holies turned towards the West, as might be collected, (fays he) and that not obscurely, from the Words of Moses, Exod. xxvi. 22. which Words of Moses, whoever is pleased to turn to them, will, at Sight, appear to carry with them a Command of God appointing the Situation f. So that

Cuivis Legem perlegenti clarum est, Israelitas de Sancto Sanctorum versus Occiduam Cœli regionem extruendo, nihil a Deo in mandatis accepisse: p. 846.

r Neque Templum solummodo, sed &, illius Prototypon, Tabernaculum, Sanctum Sanctorum Plagæ occidentali - - - obversum habuit: Hoc e Mosis verbis, haud obscure colligendum. Exod. xxvi. 22. p. 843. W

Ca

So

W

ci

hi

til

to

ing

Ce

PO Son of man, turn thee yet again, and thou shalt see greater Abominations than these: and he brought me into the inner Court of the Lord's House, and behold at the Door of the Temple of the Lord, between the Porch and the Altar, were about five and twenty men, with their Backs towards the Temple of the Lord, and their Faces towards the East, &c. Ezek. viii. 15, 16

And for the Sides of the Tabernacle Westward Thou shalt make six Boards: Ita quidem hunc locum reddunt Nostri, alique; Sed nonnihil a vero illius Sensu deslectentes, nam vox Hebræa Tocum ad res inanimatas transfertur, non latus, sed sinem, terminum, extremitatem notat: Spencer ubi supra.

we may justly regard turning to the WEST not only as a tolerated, but an established part of the Jewish Service.

ave

aw,

tum beg

this

be-

bad

ob-

XVI.

r is

tht,

and

that

It see

into

t the

their

s to-

San-

xtru-

roto-

occi-

haud

Thou Idunt ctentrans-

n no-

WC

AGAIN, tho' it is true the Scripture fays God is Light; yet I fee nothing to the contrary, but that it would have been literally as true also, if it had been faid, God is not Light; for Light (Gen. i.) is a Creature. And to obviate this Misconception of the Deity (prevailing very early in the EAST) to me feems the very Reason of God's thus addressing himself, by the Prophet, to his fervant Cyrus --- I am the Ifa. xlv Lord, and there is none else, there is no God besides me: --- I form the Light. And as Light is not only a created, but corporeal Substance, (thus the Philosopher meant it. who affigned Light for the Body, as Truth for the Soul of God) I do not fee how we can take the Text alleged on this occasion in a literal Sense, without falling into the Scheme, at least, of the refined Materialists, who maintained of old, That the first Principle was indeed an infinite Wisdom, but his Essence was only a pure Æther, or subtile Light, which diffus'd itself every where to give Life, Motion, and Reason, to all Beings +. --- But this Philosophy (whatever Ceremony may want to be supported) in the

† See the Chevalier Ramsay's Theology of the Antients.
p. 78

Joh. viii.

12. i. 9.

present enlighten'd Age, I hope, will scarce pass for Orthodox. Tho' at the same time, God, by way of Comparison, may be called Light; for, as a Father well observes, As the Sun is to the Sight, so is God to the Soult. So when our Saviour is faid to be the Light of the World, and the true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world; Commentators teach us he is fo called Claritate Vitæ & Doctrinæ, by reason of the Brightness of his Example and Dostrine; and Joh. v. 35. in this Sense is John Baptist also said to have been a burning and shining Light.

Pf. xviii. II.

THE COME

To proceed: tho' 'tis true one Scripture fays God dwelleth in Light; 'tis as true, ano-Pf. xevii. 2 ther faith, Clouds and darkness are round about bim: and yet another -- He made darkness bis secret place; bis pavillion round about him were dark waters and thick clouds: in his Commentary upon which last Psalm, Cardinal Bellarmin observes, God's ordinary or common Method of manifesting himself was by a Cloud; and that he made use of dark Clouds to teach us, by way of Symbol, bis INVISI-BILITY, and that all these are metaphorical Expressions, to give us to understand that God is

invisibly

1

il

ai

fa

ft

ad

me

dec

P.

Ju

u eft, & al invif phor

fente

xvii.

t Quod enim Sol est Sensui nostro, id Intellectui est Deus. Nazianz. Orat. de Athanas.

invisibly present v. In like manner may we observe of the Expressions on the other side also --- These Things are an Allegory, and ferve only to teach us, God is the Spiritual Light of Man; or again, that nothing is hid from him, but all things Visible, open and naked before him: at the same time may we, with Pythagoras, main- vide Dict. tain, We cannot receive the Idea of a God by Sacr. in our corporeal Senses: The' therefore, figura- Voc. Idol. tively speaking, we may fay, God is Light and dwelleth in Light; yet in a strict and literal Sense I shall not scruple, (till better inform'd) to profess myself of the Psalmist's Opinion -- The darkness and the light to him Ps. cxxxix are both alike; and that he may be as truly 12. faid to dwell in the one as the other; and, ftrictly speaking, in neither.

I CAN therefore by no means give my Affent and Confent to what Dr. Spencer whi supra advances as the Refult of human Judgment, viz. That men would think it just and decent that God should dwell in SOME PLACE towards the East, when in my Judgment nothing can be more unjust and u Ordinarie Deus autem per nebulam se ostendere solitus est, ut patet ex lib. Num. cap. ix. 1 Reg. viii. Mat. xvii. & alibi. viz. Exod. xl. 34. &c. Ut eo veluti Symbolo invisibilem se esse demonstret. - - - Sunt omnia Metaphorica, ex quibus intelligimus Deum invifibiliter præsentem Nobis se facere. Vid. Bellarm. Explanat. in Pf. xvii. ver. 11. & 13.

indecent

E 2

rce ne, led ilt. ight abt-ld; arithe and

ave

ure no-! aene s bim his Caror by

ouds ISIrical od is ni est

fibly

indecent than for Men to pretend to limit God to any Place; especially for christian Men, when a few would teach us -- God bath filled all Things, extends beyond all Things, and hath left nothing void of, or uninhabited by himself w. When again Plato, and even Diogenes, would teach us -- All things are full of God is and the former expressly, That it impossible God should be in a particular Place v: which is yet more clearly express'd by one of the Fathers, who thereupon observes -- God is his own Place is a does also another, adding withal --- That he is his own World, and all Things to Himself is And the learned x Osar sivas Adign maila. Plato, Leg. 10. pag. 899.

Harla yale isi Des ahipn. Diog. Cyn. Hisce addas Virgilianum illud:

interpretari

Terrasque, Tractusque Maris, Columque profundum.

GEOR. 4.
γ Ου ή μήτε μέτη είσὶ, μήτε όλου τυγχάνο ου, ε πολυ έτι αλυνωθώτερου εγγιγιεθού πε. Plato in Parmenide, p. 138.

τ Ὁ μεν εν Θεος ἄυλος ων, και ἀπτριγγαπίος, εν τόπω έκ έςτι, ἀυτος γὰς ἐωυίδ τόπος ἐςτ. Damascen. de Fide, lib. i. c. 16.

a God is his own World to himself, his Place, and all things, Tertullian. See Ingenious Thoughts of the Fathers by Bohours, p. 157. Lond. 1727. And I think I have somewhere seen this Expression; -- Deus est suum Uhi, however 'tis exactly expressive of my own Sense in the Matter.

Commen-

9

ti

ti

le

w Πάνθα πεπλήρωκεν ὁ Θεὸς, καὶ διὰ πάνταν διεληλύθει, καὶ κενὸν ἐδεν, ἐδε ἔρημον ἀπολέλοιπεν ἐαυθέ. Philo, Sacræ Legis Allegoriarum, lib. ii. p. 41, & 42. Edit. Turneb.

it

an

od

gs,

by

esa l×:

m-у:

one

God

er,

rld,

ned

, xau

egis um.

NO ET

ed all

athers

bave

Ubi,

in the

men-

3. tw sx lib. i. Commentator Danæus, upon the very Paffage alluded to by Dr. Spencer, where God is represented as dwelling in Light, makes no difficulty to affure us, what is there faid must be understood as spoken improperly, and after the manner of Men only. b

UPON the whole therefore, I should very willingly join Issue in the Case with Dr. Spencer, and leave it to the Judgment of Men, might I be fure it would be left to Men of Judgment; who I doubt would be foon agreed, 'tis impossible God should dwell any where fince, but where he did before Light was created; That therefore Light could have no manner of Influence upon him in the Choice of his Habitation: if it had, certainly not this or that Quarter of the Heavens, but the Sun itself must have been the Place, as being incomparably the most lightfom Dwelling he could possibly have fix'd upon; and to which the άπρόσιτου of the Apostle (viz the Epithet 1 Tim. vi. INACCESSIBLE) best agrees: and if this 16. Habitation should be a moveable one, daily

b Impropriè, & more humano habitare dicitur Deus, quippe qui nullo loco continetur.

Coroafter taught his Followers, that Fire was the truest Shecinab of the divine Presence; that the Sun being the perfectest Fire, God had there the Throne of his Glory, and the Residence of his divine Presence in a more excellent manner than any where else. Connect. Part ift. p. 216. See also Hyde's Religio veterum Persarum: cap. iv.

circling

circling around the Earth, why should the East, in particular, ingress the honour of its Situation? And again, if it should be itself the Center of the Earth's Annual Circle about it, I do not see why any one Point of the Compass should have this Right of Claim more than the rest:

Admitting therefore that God dwells in Light, yet doth it not therefore follow, that he dwells in the East more than in the West; or that the one End (to borrow Paris 6. the Scripture Phrase) of the Heavens has a Jot better Title to our Devotions, than the other.

I SHALL now proceed to a Seventh Cause assign'd why we should worship towards the East, which may be said to be three-fold; viz, Because Christ made his Appearance on Earth in the East; and there assigned into Heaven; and there will appear again at the last Day.

THAT Christ's Appearance on Earth was in the East to all those who were West of it, is what nobody can deny: And 'tis as sure also that it was in the West to all those vast populous Nations, which lie EASTWARD of the Holy Land. Now how good christian People in those Parts could

OI

d Athan. Quæst. ad Antiochum; Q. 37. See Mr. Bingbam's Origines Ecclesiasticæ, Vol. v. p. 279. Item. The Canons of St. Basil, Can. 92.

4

)-

it

's

y

ve.

::

ot,

be

10

W

as

an

ife

ds

ee-

rr-

40 ar

Oak)

rth est

tis

all

lie

OW.

arts

Mr. em'

uld

Drevoru

could look both East and West at the same time, as Dr. Cave fays, I cannot imagine; Prim. unless, (upon fecond Thoughts) like some Christ. Pt. good Christians in our Parts they carried two Faces; then indeed no wonder they fhould look more ways than one; which verily, in some fort of Times might prove a most useful and laudable Qualification, as being no more than what we call baving our Eyes about us; and why should it be thought a Thing incredible with us, that in foreign Countries Mankind should have the Gift of a double Afpect, when we daily behold fo very many Instances of it at Home, and that with great Succefs? The Holy Land is not more directly opposite to the * Ladrone Isles, than the Church of England to the Church Rome, or St. James's to --- But to order! To order! Far be it from me to infinuate as if the bright Ornaments of the Beauty of Holiness had the least Cast with their Eyes, or that charming Loyalty can fquint.

To return then to the Point before us: In the EAST be ascended into Heaven; thither then let our Thoughts follow him; only remembring what we learnt at School, Cælum undique supra est.

* These bave their Situation amongst the eastermost Parts of our Hemisphere from Jerusalem. But

BUT there (viz, in the EAST where he disappeared) He will appear again at the last Day. --- But, with the Father's Leave. this is News that wants Confirmation, which it can receive from Heaven only: The Rabbies indeed, who had ever a remarkable Zeal for bringing Business to their own Country, have long fince fix'd the Grand Affize in the Valley of Jebosaphat; to which also the + Fathers have so far agreed, as to nominate the mount of Olives, overloooking the same, for the Judgment-Seat; but should we refer the Matter to an impartial Jury of Dutch Commentators, I should not at all be furpris'd to find them bringing in their old Verdict, Ignoramus. And, for my own part, I must confess, when I attempt to furvey in one View all the Sons of Men, that ever have been, are, or are to be, I cannot for my Life conceive this is a Day's Work to be done in a Dale: and I once knew a Worcestershire Divine, who could no more bear to hear talk of the Vale of Jehosaphat for this purpose, than the Vale of Evesham: nay, he was most furioully certain, the latter, according to the most moderate Computations in Chorography, was above Ten Thousand times more capacious. This therefore, some one may fay, was but a narrow Conceit, and whether Fewish or Christian, but one Degree

to

of

th

per

cti

ctr

† Vide Gerhardum de extremo Judicio, p. 60.

he

ve.

ich 'he

ble

wn

ind ich

to

okbut

tial

not in

for

at-

ons

are

ale:

of

han uri-

the

gra-

ore

may whe-

gree

ond

beyond that of the Mahometans; who (we may learn from Mr. Maundrel) are by all means for keeping Court within Doors; and are content, it feems, their great Mosque at Damascus, should be converted! into a Town-Hall on this grand Solemnity; and that, for the better Dispatch of Business, a Session of Oyer and Terminer, should at the same time be held also in another at Jerusalem. But to remember whereof we are speaking. --- How much more awful and just is what the Scriptures teach us! viz. That the Living, as well as the Dead of all Generations, shall be caught up in the Clouds to meet the Lord in the Air; and there shall stand arrang'd, to right and left, on the immense Expanse of the ætherial Plains; when Olivet shall difappear, and Earth and Heaven fly away! c

But should we come into the Notion -that our Saviour's second Coming will be in a direct perpendicular Line over the Mount of Olives, and that there then ought to be the Center of our Devotions, as of our Expestations, and that this is primitive Doctrine, how; again, will this primitive Doctrine be reconcil'd to that more primitive e Revelat. xx. 11.

of worshiping towards the EAST? when 'tis plain the Consequence of the latter would be worshiping from every Point of the Compass; for that all the World lies round the † WREKIN.

But in the eighth Place; I find another Passage of Scripture, generally alluded to by the Fathers, is much insisted upon by many even to this day, viz. Mal. iv. 2. * Here, say they, is Christ directly call'd the Sun of Righteousness, by a true and literal Translation; and by turning towards the East, when we pay our Adoration, we are symbolically led to Christ.

To this I reply; as to the use of Symbols to lead Men to God, I have already given my Opinion; and shall only have occasion here farther to observe, what also hath been already imply'd; --- That if the Argument be good, viz. We ought to turn to the East, because Christ is called the East; Then will it be good also, We ought to turn to the Sun, because he is + Salopiæ Mons famofus.

mielith.

Ctl

n

T

ri

F

th

cei

Shi at In

fo

A

clem. Alex. Strom. Lib. vii. Aug. de Ser. Dom, in Monte. L. ii. c. 5. Item, Hieron. in Amos, chap. vi. ver. 14. Versi ad Orientem pactum inimus cum Sole Justitiz. Vide Orie. Eccles. Vol. v. p. 277. Unto you that fear my Name, the Sun of Righteonsness shall arise, &c. Mal. iv. 2.

called the Sun; and thus ought we to do in whatever Point of the Heavens the Sun is visible to us, from East to WEST: at which rate, if we count by Degrees only, shall we have no less than 180 different Kebla's, or Points to turn our Eyes upon, in divine Service. And in the dark Days before Christmas, to serve God with any tolerable Exactness, and be critical (as who would not!) in his Devotion, a Man had need of a + Card, as well as a Kalendar; tune and, to steer his Vows aright, must pray, Charte marine. as well as fail, by Needle and Compass.

THE ninth Place I shall assign to the Opinion of the very learned and very worthy Mr. Bingbam, with respect to the Ceremony now before us. His words are thefe. The Original of this Custom seems to be derived from the Ceremony of Baptism, in which it was usual to renounce the Devil with their Faces to the West, and then turn about to the East, and make their Covenant with Christ; from whence (continues he) I conceive it became their common Custom to worship God after the same way that they bad, at first, enter'd into Covenant with bim f. --In this, with the most fincere deference to fo deserving a Man in what relates to the Antiquities of the Church, I beg leave to f Vol. v. Pag. 276.

F 2

diffent

lled

tis

blud

the

lies

mo-

Ilu-

fted

Mal.

ctly

rue

toora-

vm-

ady

ave

alfo

the

to lled

Ho,

e is

Jom.

. VI. Sole that &c.

diffent from him; because (for ought I can possibly find) the Ceremony of turning to the East amongst Christians, was much prior to that of turning to the WEST; Dr. Spencer (if I take him right) supposes it to have generally prevailed almost from the very Infancy of Christianity s. And there is no room to dispute but that it was the Practice of the fecond Century; but for turning to the West, Mr. Bingbam himfelf supplies us with no Authority, I can yet find, above the fourth. And indeed, from what Dupin observes, I am inclin'd to believe it had then its Rife; In this Century, (viz. the IV.) fays he, Ceremonies were carried to the highest Point of their Splendor; --- Baptism was administered with abundance of Ceremonies h. Dr. Cave indeed particularly mentions this Ceremony of turning to the West at Baptism, in his Part I. p. Primitive Christianity; but the Authors he alleges for it are both of them Fourth-Century-Men; nor does he mention it as a primitive Ceremony, but expressly as an additional Rite of After-ages; observing, first of all, that in the Apostles Age, Baptism was administered with great Nakedness 314.

h Eccl. Hift. Vol. ii. p. 167.

30

<sup>8</sup> Sane Christiani longe plurimi, a primis pene nascentis Christianismi Seculis, ad Orientem conversi precabantur: De Leg. Heb. Rit. p. 846.

can

to uch

ST;

Sup-

most

And

was

but

im-

can

eed,

in'd

this

onies

their

with

in-

ony

n his

s he irth-

t as

as

ring,

Bap-

dness

nafi pre-

and

and Simplicity, probably (fays he) without any more Formality, than a short Prayer, and repeating the Words of Institution. And indeed Mr. Bingbam himself, before he closes his Chapter, candidly expresses his Pag. 280. own Diffidence, whether it were so or not as he had conjectured.

there is no roof! AND here, by the way, I shall not feruple to declare my Opinion, That I do not think the Fathers had any more Reafon to affign the West peculiarly to the Devil. than they had to affign the East peculiarly to Christ; and they must be allow'd very generous Adversaries in allotting their Enemy one Moiety of the Globe, as they did their Saviour the other; what is this but granting him Divisum Imperium cum Jove? in Milton's Words the very Boast of Satan, viz. Divided Empire with Heaven's ubi supra King I bold.

AT the same time it happens a little odd alfo, that, upon this grand Division, Lucifer, by the GRANT of the Fathers, should have the West allotted him; whereas, 'tis well known, he makes his Appearance i every Morning in the East before the Sun itself; and that his first Transactions with Mankind, and Triumph over our Catholic of the head parties of the state of the

i Stella gravis nobis Lucifer ortus erat. Ovid.

Race were in what we call the EAST. On the other Hand 'tis as well known also by all, who know any thing of facred Antiquities, that the Apartment which God chose in his own House, wherein more peculiarly to manifest the divine Prefence, was the West-End of the Temple. And I have often thought the Language of Lastantius and St. Jerome, upon this account, could not but give very great Offence and Scandal to the Jews. The WEST, fays the former, is ascribed to that turbulent and wicked Spirit . And, fays the latter, In our Mysteries, the first Thing we do, is to renounce him who dwells in the West! When, that There is the very MAJESTY of God, was, with the Rabbies, as much a Proverb, as any in Solomon m.

THESE Confiderations lead me to what I shall observe as the tenth and last Reafon, for the present, why the primitive Christians worship'd towards the EAST; viz. the Rule of Contraries, or a Spirit of Opposition, not to say Enmity, towards the Jews.

In Mysteriis primum renunciamus ei, qui in Occidente est. Hieron. in Amos vi. 14.

BOLM

1 tl

 $\mathbf{f}_{\mathbf{c}}$ ad

th

D

la

pr

co

M

M

man

* Occidens conturbatæ illi pravæque Menti ascribitur. lib. ji. cap. 10.

m Majestas divina est in Occidente: Maimon. Mor. Nevoch. P. iii. cap. 45.

T.

wn

ta-

ein

re-

ind

of

ac-Of-

The

bat

the

We

f!.

1 4

hat

ea-

ive

T;

of the

itur.

aci-

Mor.

OR

For what I have now faid, methinks I already hear myfelf called to account; and my Answer is, I met with it as a late great Man in our Church once met with something else, to his Purpose, before me; viz. by prying into some Papers that bear the Name of Bishop Overal. Because, says my Author, the Jews were the deadliest, and most spiteful Enemies to Christianity that are in the World; in that regard were many Laws made by the Church, to have no Conformity with them, no more than with the Heathens in their Orders, SO PRAY-ING TO THE EAST came up.

Up on which, that I may not be farther tedious, let it here suffice to observe only, That they who insist upon this Reason seem to forget, that herein they do actually conform themselves to the Heathens, who (as in the beginning of this Disquisition has been shewn) in their idolatrous Worship of the Sun, were the primitive Practisers of this since most Catholick Ceremony in the Church of Christ. Which Opinion I am the more consirm d in, by a Passage I have lately met with in the eleborate Works of the learned Mr. Theoph. Gale, sometime Fellow of Magdalen College in Oxford; who, express-

m Additional Notes to Dr. Nicholls, upon the Common Prayer, p. 16. of the Said Notes.

Demon. Worship.

VI

ly treating of the Derivation of Popish from Pagan Rites, has these Words. -- Another piece of Pagan Damporodatsia was their Ceremony of Bowing and Worshiping towards the East: for the Pagans universally Worshiped the Sun as their Supreme God, even the more reformed of them, the new Platonists, Plotinus, Porphyry, and Julian the Apostate, as it appears by his Oration to the Sun; whence it came to pass, that the Sun rising in the East, They usually worshiped that way. Hence also they built their Temples, and buried their Dead towards the East. Court of the Gentiles, Part III. p. 206.

BUT to draw towards a Conclusion: Thus, Readers, courteous and uncourteous, (for I expect both, and shall be very well content if I have but enough of either) have I with all Fidelity laid before you the most plausible, and generally receiv'd Reasons of the Fathers for worshiping towards the E AST; and, without respect of Persons, as impartially examin'd them, as I have freely exhibited them: Whether upon their being weigh'd they will be found wanting in the Ballance or not, I shall leave every man to judge for him-felf, as I do for myself. Father Origen indeed feems to fqueak; or, at least, to betray a Diffidence of the Goodness of his Cause, when he desires Men would be so civil, as not to be too busy in enquiring inpish

An-

was

torsal-

reme

the

and

Ora-

pass,

They they

Dead iles,

ion:

ous,

well

her)

the

iv'd iem, ether be

I

him-

rigen

to f his

e fo

111-

to

topect

to it . And St. Austin, how well soever affected to the same, yet fairly acknowledges, it was a piece of Devotion, bis Bible no where taught bin +. And if we may take Vossius his Opinion, who, as I have intimated, feems also transiently to have considered the Case, he will tell us downright --- This same old Custom amongst Christians, contrary to the Jewish, of turning at their Devotions towards the rifing Sun, stands upon no sound Foundation P. Some one perhaps may add; Upon neither a better nor worse, than the Ruins of the oldest Idolatry that has been fince the World began 4; supported indeed by a SETT of After-thoughts, which, however unphilosophical or unscriptural, yet must be allow'd, confidering the Gravity of the Authors, not to be altogether undiverting. Our great Stillingfleet, 'tis true, ubi supra fays in plain English, they are very insufficient. -- But a just Sense of the Duty of filial Reverence, has all along constrained me to tread as light as possible

o See Stillingfleet's Ecclefiastical Cases, p. 267. Ed. 2d. + Nulla scriptura nos docuit versus orientem orare.

Vide Durand. Rat. Lib. v. Cap. ii.

P Orandi Ritus antiquus Christianorum, Judaico contrarius, quo ad Solem Orientem conversi precabantur, nullo folido nititur Fundamento. Vide Indicem Theologia Gentilis &c. in Voc. Orandi.

9 Quod scilicet Consuetudo obvertendi se ad Orientem ado andi causa, ab Idololatria ortum suum habuisse videatur, nempe a Solis orientis Adoratione: quæ omnium prima & antiquissima videtur suisse Idololatria. Lud. Cappel. ubi supra.

the

over the venerable Ashes of the ancient Fathers; and for this Reason I hope to find the more Indulgence myself, should I not be able hereafter fo religiously to keep my Countenance under all the violent Temptations to the contrary, which may occur thro' the Course of a Dis-QUISITION from the Beginning of the World to this Day. The Man, who in so immense a Tract of Time can meet with nothing to make him fmile, must certainly have been inducted, either into the Cave of Trophonius, or the Vicarage of ---- But fince it is, in Fact, a Subject, wherein many Points will be found to arise, that may serve to divert, as well as inform the World about us, it were Pity it should languish in the Hands of a depress'd and drooping Genius, when it is fo capable of being cultivated by one more fortunate and joyous, Cui faciles Risus. And to such an one I heartily commend it, and shall freely communicate my Observations: And having traversed the Country before him (if he be one that loves a Day's Sport, as I must own I once did myfelf) this I shall now tell him for his Encouragement ---- He will find the Covers Thin, and Game Plenty. But for me, tot jam labentibus annis —For ten long Years the standing Object of a Faction's Rage, 'tis time that I retire, Et satis est monstrasse Viam.

FINIS.

AUTHORS cited in this Treatife.

PLINIUS. PLAUTUS. VITRUVIUS. Potter: Archæologiæ Græcæ. SELDEN: De Synedr.

ent

to pld fly

he

ich

3-

of

ho an

le,

ner

ca-

a nd

as

it nds

en

by

fa-

arm.

ng

be

ust

WC

He

ennis

ng nat

SPENCER: De Legibus Hebræorum ritualibus, & carum Rationibus. PRIDEAUX: Connection of the History of the Old and New Testament, &cc. Anonym: Dictionarium facrum feu religiofum. GREGORII: Posthuma. SANCHONIATHON: ex Traduc. Phil. Bib. apud Euseb. de Præpar. Evang. LUDOVICUS CAPPELLUS: Annotationes inter Criticos facros.

GERARDUS JOANNES VOSSIUS: De Theologia Gentili, &c.

Chevalier RAMSAY: Theology of the Antients.

STILLINGFLEET: Origines Sacræ: And Ecclesiastical Cases.

THEOPHILUS GALE: Court of the Gentiles.

JURIEU: Histoire Critique des Dogmes & des Cultes, &c.

MILTON: Paradife Lost.

M F A D: De Imperio Solis, &c.

HYGENUS: apud Spencerum.

JOANNES GERHARDUS: Loci Theologici.

TER-

TERTULLIAN: Apolog.

JUSTIN MARTYR: Dialog. cum Tryph.

Anonym: Enquiry into the Constitution, &c.

of the Primitive Church.

WHEATLY: Rational Illustration of the Book of Common Prayer.

TACITUS.

BINGHAM: Origines Ecclesiasticæ.

LE SUEUR: Histoire De l' Eglise, &c. DUPIN: Compendious History of the Church. LACTANTIUS.

NAZIANZ: Orat. de Athanas.

CAVE: Primitive Christianity.

BELLARMINUS: Explanatio in Psalmos. PHILO: Sacræ Legis Allegoriarum Lib. DAMASCEN: De Fide.

HIERONYMUS:

BOHOURS: Ingenious Thoughts of the Fathers.

DANÆUS:

MAIMONIDES: Mor. Nevoch,

Dr. Nicholls,

MVSEVM BRITAN NICVM ERRATA

PAG. 16. l. 11. r. as a Crime. p. 17. l.32. r. spectare. p. 18. l. 1. r. Magicians. p. 37. l. 11. r. I doubt not. p. 41. l.27. r. Doctrine; how again s